Effective communication skills are essential to achieving good outcomes for learners with autism. Despite advances in intervention and treatment over the past decade, many students with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) continue to demonstrate significant deficits in speech, language and communication. This workshop will provide an overview of the challenges to developing effective communication skills in learners with autism as well as strategies that can be used in the home. This workshop will focus on:

- understanding the challenges in speech, language, and communication common in learners with ASD;
- learning basic strategies to use to promote effective communication in learners with ASD.

ANYONE INTERESTED IN ATTENDING MUST PRE-REGISTER.
